TAFT DECLINES HIS INVITATION

Ex-President Will Start for Canada on June 30 and Writes that he Cannot Accept Battle Anniversary Celebration Invitation.

Ex-President William H. Taft will not attend the battle anniversary celebration at Gettysburg. Mr. and Mrs. Taft are now at their home in New Haven and a letter, received in Gettysburg this morning, conveyed the information that they would be in Canada at the time of the celebration. Mr. Taft leaves New Haven June 30 to be absent until early in September. This leaves the anniversary without any presiding officer, and the orator for the closing day not yet secured.

The invitation to ex-President Taft to deliver the July Fourth oration here was extended when President Wilson declined to come. Mr. Wilson will be at his summer home in New Hampshire at the time of the celebration, and this latest development puts the commission in an unpleasant position at a very late day.

On the opening day of the celebration the commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic and the presiding officer of the United Confederate Veterans will both make addresses or be represented by some one whom they may appoint. Governor Tener will make the principal address on one of the other days but no formal announcement of the full program has as yet been made public, and the trouble in securing a presiding officer will possibly delay this still further.

The camp opens one week from tomorrow.

CASHTOWN

Cashtown—On Monday evening and Tuesday morning all the people in our town were busy with their brooms and shovels cleaning off the street for the oil.

On Tuesday afternoon while Joseph McDannell was passing through this place he had two small dogs running after the buggy. A large auto ran up behind him and blew the horn. Mr. McDannell turned to one side and the dogs to the other side which caused the one dog to lose his life and the other made a very narrow escape.

On Wednesday morning as Adam Deardorff was coming out of his alley with the spring wagon a street piano was playing in front of R. D. Bream's store. The horse took fright and ran against a telephone pole on the curb, throwing Mr. Deardorff to the ground. The horse ran a short distance when he was caught by J. E. Rebert. The wagon was not damaged.

H. P. Rebert, of Philadelphia, formerly of this place, accompanied by C. M. Jones and John E. Kuhn, also formerly of this place, and six men from Philadelphia spent Thursday night among their old friends. Mr. Rebert has charge of the extension of the Western Union work in Gettysburg for the anniversary.

LATIMORE

Latimore—On Sunday evening about six o'clock W. E. Brough's barn was entirely destroyed by fire. The origin of the fire is unknown. The family were eating supper when the alarm was made known by neighbors who saw the smoke.

Quite a number of the people from this place attended the Sunday School convention which was held at the Lower Meridian Reformed church on Saturday evening and Sunday.

Mrs. Ira Aker, of Harrisburg, spent a few days recently with C. M. Lerew and family.

John Sinner and family, of Spring Grove, were the guests of G. H. Jacobs and wife Saturday and Sunday.

MORE SOLDIERS ARRIVE IN CAMP

Four more companies of infantry entered the big camp this morning shortly after nine o'clock when the First Battalion Fifth United States Infantry arrived by special train from Plattsburg, New York. The battalion is accompanied by the regimental band and their arrival adds about 300 regularly enlisted men in the camp. Captain W. D. Davis is in command.

The battalion was originally listed as due here on next Tuesday but work at the camp demanded their earlier arrival and the men will be put to work at once on guard duty in preparing for the arrival of the veterans starting the latter part of next week.

In the First Battalion is one of the champion base ball teams of the army. It belongs to Company C and is anxious to meet local teams during the stay here which is expected to last until August 15. The team lost only two games in 1911 and has been undefeated since that time. Corporal Shaw is the manager of the outfit and will endeavor to book dates for days when work at the camp is slack.

The work of pitching the big assembly tent was started on Friday. It is to be located immediately south of the railroad along the Emmitsburg road and will accommodate 10,000 persons at one time. It will be large enough to have at one time a number of separate gatherings and reunions and will be used for many of the principal exercises of the celebration. It is the largest tent ever pitched at Gettysburg.

The work of putting up the last pieces of canvas for the veterans is now going along with all haste. The southwestern edge of the camp remains to be completed and this will be finished early next week. The regulars have been put to work to assist the civilians and everything will be in readiness in ample time.

Unloading and unpacking supplies takes the time of a veritable army of civilians and carload after carload of equipment is brought in for immediate handling. The camp site is a scene of great activity and one of the most interesting places in the country at the present time.

HEARD CASES

On Friday evening Nellie Cross was given a hearing before Squire Harnish on a charge of keeping a disorderly house. She was held for Court. Nellie Cross has been out on bail for several weeks on a charge of keeping a bawdy house.

John Valentine, charged with disorderly conduct, was given a hearing by Squire Harnish on Friday evening and sentenced to pay a fine of $1 and costs of prosecution.

The case against John Shultz, charged with assault and battery on information of G. W. Sharrar, was dismissed. The case grew out of an altercation at the Washington House last Saturday.

ARM CRUSHED ON RAILROAD

Intoxicated Negro Sleeping at Side of Railroad in Gettysburg Has his Arm Badly Mashed. Was Sent to Hospital.

About five o'clock this morning, John Trammel, colored, of Washington, D. C., was found lying beside the Western Maryland tracks, with an arm crushed.

Trammel had been drinking the night before, and had wandered around, finally lying down between the switch and the track, near the ice plant. He was seen there by men on the shifting train when it passed going west and was unhurt. After the switching train came back another colored man found Trammel lying there with his arm badly hurt. He took him into the station and called Doctors Dickson and Diehl, who examined him and found the wound serious.

They sent in a call to the army hospital but the officers there did not respond, saying that they had work on the field. Dr. Dickson then notified the County Home where it was decided to send him to the Carlisle hospital. Dr. Diehl, the County Home physician, dressed the wounds and Steward Shelly got a ticket to Carlisle and sent Trammel there.

The right arm was struck between the shoulder and the elbow, the bone crushed, and the flesh badly cut. The arm will probably have to be amputated near the shoulder.

ANOTHER MONUMENT

New Monument being Erected Near Meade's Headquarters.

The National Park Commission is having erected near Meade's Headquarters a monument indicating the location of the headquarters of Brigadier General Henry J. Hunt. The monument is on the Taneytown Road and faces the newly opened Hunt avenue which connects the Taneytown Road with the Baltimore pike. It is the only monument to General Hunt on the field. He was chief of all the Union artillery at Gettysburg July 2, 3, 4 and 5 and the memorial is in the shape of a forty pound bronze cannon, with a suitable bronze plinth. General Hunt was a native of Michigan and was commissioned from Ohio.

READY FOR BUSINESS

Local Telephone Company Installs Third Switchboard.

The Cumberland Valley Telephone Company, better known as the "United," has made thorough preparations for handling the business of the anniversary time. They have installed a third switchboard which will be used for toll business only, thus giving quicker and better service in town. The United has connected with all the camps—veterans, state, and constabulary. On Friday evening, with the new equipment, the exchange handled thirty calls to test the new fire alarm system. Seven operators compose the force on duty.

FINDS HIS BUGGY

Buggy Said to have been Stolen by Gauger and Toms.

The buggy which was captured in the woods near Foxville, when Sharon Gauger was arrested there early one morning recently, is the property of W. L. Chapman, Blue Ridge Summit. After the arrest of Gauger Mr. Chapman made an inspection of his stable and discovered that a buggy was missing. He was informed that the vehicle was in Carlisle.

Mr. Chapman went to Carlisle this week and identified the vehicle and directed that it be crated and sent to him at Blue Ridge Summit.

HOW ABOUT THE EXTRA 10,000?

Secretary of War Puts the Matter up to Pennsylvania Commission. Ten Thousand More Veterans than Number Provided for.

Ten thousand veterans who are planning to take part in the semi-centennial celebration next month will find themselves without quarters or subsistence unless the celebration commission can arrange to provide for them. The War Department has been notified that 50,000 veterans will attend, but there are funds to care for only 40,000, and Secretary Garrison has now notified the commission that he would not accept responsibility for entertaining the additional number.

The Secretary sent this telegram to the commission:

"If you have arranged that 10,000 in addition are to attend, you must provide the funds to take care of them. There are no funds available to me for this purpose, and I am positively prohibited by express acts of Congress from incurring one dollar's worth of expenses over and above the amounts specifically appropriated for this particular purpose. Should I do so I would not only disobey the express law, but would lay myself open both to civil and criminal liability. If you have committed yourself to the entertainment of more than 40,000 initially expected, you must make it perfectly plain to all those over 40,000 that the responsibility is entirely yours and that you will provide for them. I have no facilities, nor any prospect of getting any, which enable me to do more than take care of the 40,000 who up to this time have been the expected number."

Discussing the situation later, Secretary Garrison said:

"Unless the commission is in a position to supply the money needed for the additional and unprovided for expense they will have created an alarming condition of affairs. If 50,000 should come a most serious situation would be encountered. I simply haven't the means to take care of more than 40,000 originally planned, for, and I have no way of procuring any additional means."

Six Confederate veterans, three Union veterans, one Spanish War veteran and eleven other representatives, including Speaker Clark, will represent the House at the Gettysburg celebration. The House Friday formally accepted an invitation from the State of Pennsylvania to participate and authorized the Speaker to appoint a committee headed by himself.

MANY TRIED TEST

New System Given Thorough Test. People Take Quickly to Idea.

The people of town responded quickly to the call of the fire company for a number of test alarms Friday evening and for an hour an alarm after another was sent in. The bell was tapped regularly and people over town had their fire cards in hand to see from what section the call had come. Every three minutes from seven to eight o'clock an alarm was sounded, citizens generally catching on to the system and all working it as originally planned. From Friday evening's test it appears most probable that the system will prove satisfactory and a great improvement over the old manner of ringing the bell when there was no way of telling where the fire was located.

MANY CHANGES MADE IN TARIFF

Revised Bill Placed Before Senate Democrats.

INCOME TAX HELD BACK

The Free List Has Been Greatly Enlarged and the Metal Schedule Cut. Cotton and Woolen Goods Increased.

Washington, June 21.—With large additions to the free list and drastic reductions in the metal schedule, the Underwood tariff bill as amended by the senate finance committee and reported to the Democratic caucus, was made public.

The revenue producing qualities of the bill have been increased, despite many reductions, by a provision imposing a duty of 5 cents a bunch on bananas and removing from brandies used in fortifying American wines the large preferential given to them.

Wheat and flour have been kept on the free list, subject to a fixed countervailing duty. The sugar and raw wool provisions of the house bill will stand.

The bill as reported is expected to produce $5,000,000 more revenue than as passed by the house. The chief increases in duty are in the cotton schedule. This, like the manufactured wool schedule, was reclassified to place slightly higher duties on highly manufactured products.

Only the income tax feature was held back for revision. Senator Simmons, chairman of the committee, indicated he expected opposition in the caucus to the sugar and wool program, but believed those schedules would not be changed.

Here are the principal changes made in the rates of the bill as it had passed in the house:

Added to the free list: Alizarin; single tube yarns; school books; cement; creosote oil; anthracene and anthracene oil; glaziers' and engravers' diamonds, not cut; miners' diamonds and diamond dust; crude artificial abrasives; flax, hemp; flax and hemp tow; amber gum, valued at not more than 50 cents a pound; indigo colors; pig iron; wrought and scrap iron; ferro-manganese and iron in slabs, blooms, loops or other forms less finished than iron bars, except castings; leather, including patent leather for shoes; harness and saddle leather; asphaltum; limestone rock asphalt; needles for shoe machines; photographic films and moving picture films; cyanide of potash; steel ingots, etc., not containing alloy; cattle, sheep and all other domestic live animals suitable for human food; hair of the Angora goat and alpaca; paintings, etchings, sculptures, etc., of a "professional character."

Wheat, 10 cents a bushel in the Underwood bill, was added to the free list, but the senate committee retained a retaliatory provision for a duty of 10 cents a bushel on wheat, 45 cents a barrel on flour and 10 per cent ad valorem on other wheat products when imported from a country that imposes duty on American wheat or wheat products.

A retaliatory duty of 10 per cent upon potatoes imported from countries imposing duties against the United States also was inserted. Potatoes were unreservedly on the free list in the Underwood bill.

An amendment permitting the president to proclaim special rates when foreign nations discriminate against the United States, provides that he shall exercise his authority on certain articles, as follows:

"Fish, fresh, smoked and dried, pickled or otherwise prepared, 1 cent per pound; on wheat, 10 cents per bushel; on wheat flour, 45 cents per barrel; on coffee, 3 cents per pound; on tea, 10 cents per pound."

"On the following articles a duty not to exceed one and one-fourth times that specified, on earthen, stone and chinaware, lemons, cheese, wines of kinds, malt liquors, knitted goods, silk dress and piece goods, leather gloves, laces and embroideries of whatever material composed, and articles made wholly or in part of same, toys, jewelry and precious, semi-precious and imitation precious stones, suitable for use in the manufacture of jewelry."

"On the following, in addition to the duties as provided: Sugars, tank bottoms, syrup of cane juice and concentrated molasses, testing by the polariscope not above 75 degrees, 15-100 cents per pound, and for every additional degree by the polariscope test, additional 1-100 cent per pound; on molasses, 2 cents per gallon."

The Democrats of the finance committee determined to change the basic exemption of the income tax from $4000, as in the house bill, to $5000. This would apply only to single men or women. An additional provision would give to the married man with a dependent wife or to the married woman with a dependent husband, $1000 more exemption, or a total of $4000.

Further exemption is provided for the family at the rate of $500 for each minor child, but in no case would this apply to more than two children. This makes the exemption for the family with two or more children $5000.

The Underwood bill treated the man and the woman of the family as a unit in fixing the exemption of $4000, but the senate committee has added an other amendment which would make taxable the income of both husband and wife if each had separate taxable incomes.

NAVY AVIATOR KILLED IN BIPLANE COLLAPSE

Companion is Probably Fatally Injured.

Annapolis, Md., June 21.—Ensign William B. Billingslea, of Mississippi, was killed instantly and Lieutenant John H. Towers, of Georgia, was injured probably fatally when the biplane in which they were maneuvering over the Chesapeake bay in the vicinity of Kent Island collapsed and threw both men into the water.

A party in a motorboat witnessed the accident and rescued Lieutenant Towers. They did not stop to search for Ensign Billingslea, as his body was not in sight and it was presumed he had sunk.

Lieutenant Towers was so badly injured that all speed was made for the naval hospital at Annapolis.

The two officers started from the naval academy in a hydro-aeroplane for Chelborne, Md. When about five to seven miles from Annapolis the machine, at an altitude of about 1000 feet, capsized and began to fall, and when it had dropped about 400 feet Ensign Billingslea fell or was thrown out and killed. Lieutenant Towers remained in the machine and fell with it into the bay.

Aviator Falls at Easton.

Easton, Pa., June 21.—A flight by Charles Byadorfer, an aviator of Los Angeles, Cal., at the Mardi Gras and "Old Home Week" celebration, ended in a wreck. The aviator made his ascent from the Northampton County club and started toward Easton. He had reached an altitude of 300 feet when his machine was caught in a gust of wind and fell to the ground. Byadorfer escaped with only slight bruises.

CZAREVITCH IS WORSE

Heir to Russian Throne Is Unable to Leave Bed.

St. Petersburg, June 21.—Grand Duke Alexis, the young czarvitch, whose health has been failing since last September, when he was mysteriously injured in the groin, has taken a turn for the worse, and he cannot leave his bed.

It was stated that the heir to the Russian throne has been worse since the Moscow festivities a month ago, when he overtaxed his strength. Czar Nicholas is considering the advisability of sending to Germany for specialists.

TO SIGN SUNDY CIVIL BILL

Wilson Will Write Memorandum Giving His Reasons.

Washington, June 21.—After the cabinet meeting it was said at the White House that President Wilson would sign the sundry civil appropriation bill, with its provisions forbidding the use of its funds for prosecution of labor unions and farmers' organizations under the Sherman antitrust law.

The president will write a memorandum announcing his attitude toward the exemptions and his reasons for signing the bill.

More Afflicted Than Job.

New York, June 21.—An extraordinary case of human affliction was entered on the police records of the city when a poorly dressed man about sixty-five years of age, found seated on a Washington Heights doorstep, and taken to a hospital, was discovered by the physicians there to be deaf, dumb, blind, a cripple and insane. Owing to his condition the authorities were unable to learn any thing of his identity.

PERKINS ANGERED AT PERSECUTION

Says He Volunteered as Witness in Harvester Case.

THREATENED WITH INDICTMENT

Banker Bitterly Complains of the Attitude of the Government Toward Him and Harvester Company.

Chicago, June 21.—George W. Perkins, former partner of the late J. Pierpont Morgan, was a witness in the hearing of the "trust" case of the International Harvester company.

After peppy exchanges with Edwin P. Grosvenor, attorney for the government, Mr. Perkins complained bitterly to reporters of the attitude of the government representatives toward him and the company.

The financier had been under cross-examination and had been dismissed without redirect examination when he was surrounded by newspaper men and others.

"What has been a matter of constant amazement to me has been the discourteous attitude the government has maintained toward me since the beginning of the trial," he said.

"From the first I expected the government would call me as a witness, and I was never so surprised as when it closed its case without calling on me."

"The only course then left to me was to go on the stand of my own volition, and the moment I take the stand the prosecutor warns me that anything I may say will be used against me in a criminal suit which may follow."

"Here in this country I have been prosecuted by my government. Just to show the difference in its attitude as compared with other governments let me say that last year the head of the Masse-Harris company, of Toronto, Mr. A. J. Jones, was knighted by the king of England for doing the same thing I have done in this country—the building up of an immense foreign field of sale for harvesting machinery."

"One would think from the attitude of the government that where we went a blight followed, where on the contrary, wherever we have gone the land has bloomed and we have increased the compensation of our laborers in the foreign field 32 per cent."

Mr. Perkins said he would return immediately to New York.

During cross-examination Mr. Perkins testified that the fact that the companies which he went after controlled 85 per cent of the business in the United States did not enter into his consideration; he merely wanted a company big enough to get the foreign trade.

He was asked how much stock he took, and answered:

"I took all I could possibly buy, and I still have it. I might add that I have a larger percentage of my private fortune in this enterprise than in any other."

"Is it in your name?"

"I object, Mr. Grosvenor, to your going into my private affairs in public. If you wish I will send you a list of all my holdings in the company. My wife is also a large holder of this stock."

The lawyer asked that the list be furnished him.

The government attorney said:

"We are looking at the legality of its formation ten years ago. That is what we are interested in."

"You could have learned this long ago," replied Mr. Perkins, "if you had only called on me then. But you didn't and I had to wait until now, when I am testifying under notice. I probably will be criminally indicted for having given you this information."

DEATH OF MAJOR ANCONA

Last Surviving Member of House When Lincoln Took Office.

Reading, Pa., June 21.—Major Sydenham E. Ancona, eighty-nine years of age, probably the only surviving member of the house of representatives of 1861, when Abraham Lincoln was sworn in, died here.

He was a Democrat and served for three terms in congress as representative from the Berks district. He was born in Lancaster county and came to Reading when young, and led a remarkably active life. Upon his last visit to Washington a year ago his house of representatives took a recess of fifteen minutes to give him a reception.

President's Wife on Road to Recovery

Washington, June 21.—"Mrs. Wilson is much better," said Dr. Carl Grayson, U. S. N., the president's physician. "I believe with a few days of additional rest she will be entirely well and prepared to go to Cornish, N. H. when the family goes. All she needs now is relaxation and a little care, particularly with her diet."

Twenty Dead in Battle With Arabs.

Rome, June 21.—A battle between Italian troops and Tripolitan Arabs at Etangli resulted in twenty deaths while over 200 men were wounded. The Arabs are said to have been routed.

RIPENING AND CHURNING CREAM

The best time to separate milk is when it is warm from the cow, and at this time any of the standard machines will do good work and remove the butter fat so closely that we need not worry, writes a correspondent of the Iowa Homestead. Another important point in separating is to have the machine adjusted so that the cream will be thick and rich, containing from 30 to 40 per cent fat. Cream separated in this manner will churn more rapidly, and less fat will remain in the buttermilk; besides the work can be done at a lower temperature. The great secret is to have the cream cooled as soon as possible after it is separated to at least 50 degrees and holding it there until a few hours before it is warmed up to ripen.

Now comes the question of ripening, for as a general rule it is best not to churn the cream in an unripened condition. You will get good butter, but there are difficulties in churning that make it very intricate work and undesirable for any but an expert to undertake. In ripening the cream it is necessary that we take great care to avoid as much as possible all bad odors and flavors. Ripening cream means holding it at a temperature that is proper until the various kinds of bacteria have time to develop lactic acid, which aids in churning and gives the characteristic flavor to the best butter. Keep the cream until there is enough to make a churning. Well ripened cream should thicken and run like oil and have a gloss on a fresh surface. If the ripening process has gone too far it is impossible to make finely flavored butter from it. Never mix sweet and sour cream. Half ripened cream, neither sweet nor sour, will churn very hard and make very poor butter. If sweet cream is churned use it when perfectly fresh.

Dutch Belted cattle are a comparatively young breed in this country, although they are growing rapidly in public favor. The cows give a good supply of milk of very good quality and are very hardy, easy to keep and of good size. Their distinctive mark, a broad belt of white about a body of black, makes a herd of this breed a very attractive sight. The bulls are gentle and rarely are wild or vicious. The head of the Dutch Belted bull shown herewith indicates to the observing eye dairy quality.

The churning of well ripened cream is one of the simple arts of butter-making. Churn at a temperature that the butter will come in from forty to sixty minutes when the churn is not more than one-third full of cream. This gives better butter than when it comes more rapidly.

Use water at a temperature of 40 to 45 degrees in cold weather, allowing for the season, solidity of the butter, etc. Put salt in the churn and stir thoroughly with a wooden spoon. There is nothing more difficult in making good, even quality butter than to get a uniform amount of salt in different churnings. If the salt is well mixed with the butter it will need but little working. Press it just hard enough on any good worker to work out the surplus water and give it a compact texture. As a general rule, it is preferable to move from the churn to the worker and then pack at once and avoid streaked butter. The buttermaker should always judge for himself when it is worked enough.

Quality Before Color.

A good many Holstein people are leaning very strongly toward the color craze. It happens, for the moment, that white is the fashionable color and efforts are being made to breed these cattle as nearly white as possible. Of course, this is merely a fad which will run its course in time, but it may work injury while doing so. The color of the hair on an animal ought not to be so important as it has been made in other breeds in the past. Quality should speak first and loudest. Breeding for certain colors is likely to lead into the temptation of putting the color as a first qualification at the expense of quality, and this in turn is likely to result in the deterioration of the individual.—Kansas Farmer.

Period of Lactation.

Here is an important question by the Pacific Dairy Review: "How many cows have you in the 'dry lot'?" This is a question that every dairyman should ask himself, especially when feed is scarce and high priced. It will also tell him something about the general quality of his cows. A cow that is bred for dairy usefulness should milk from ten to eleven months out of the year. She is entitled to a month or six weeks of rest, but any longer time than this is loading pure and simple.—Kansas Farmer.

THE GRANGE

GOOD GRANGE WORK.

What Granges In One County In Illinois Have Done or Are Doing.

The first work of importance was the establishment of a city market in Rockford, the county seat, where producers and consumers meet to their mutual advantage. Butter, eggs, chickens, vegetables and fruit are brought to the market place and offered for sale on three mornings of each week, prices being made that are about halfway between retail and wholesale, thus helping both seller and buyer.

After asphalt pavements were laid on the principal streets of Rockford and hitching posts were removed so that teams could not be left out after hour to stamp holes in the pavement the granges made a united effort to have posts provided in nearby streets to accommodate the farmers. It has now been promised that the work shall be done, and city and country people alike will be glad to have things again made convenient for the farmer.

Almost every grange now has its annual fair, an exhibition open to all members and their families. Here the farmer shows his grains, vegetables and fruit, and his wife and daughters exhibit bread, cake, pie, canned fruit, jelly and fancy work of all kinds. Suitable prizes are offered, judges being selected from some other grange, and much pleasure and profit result.

Of late several granges have been trying a new plan, which has proved interesting and profitable. It is to invite a neighboring grange to provide the program for some special meeting, the visiting grange being repaid in like manner at a later date. It not only brings new interest to the meeting by the interchange of ideas, but helps the people to get acquainted.

HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT.

New York Grange Favors a Road Department Divorced From Politics.

The position of New York Patrons of Husbandry on the highway question is stated in a resolution adopted at the last session of the state grange, but it will hardly get what it wants this year. This is the resolution:

Whereas, The New York state grange was a pioneer in the advocacy of a system of improved highways in which market roads should be given primary consideration and be first constructed.

Resolved, That it views with grave concern the diversion of a large portion of the original bond issue of $50,000,000 by special legislation to the construction of highways which are primarily intended to serve the interests of the few for pleasure rather than the many for business, and it demands that in the construction of improved highways in the future the primary purpose of the voters as expressed in the proposition submitted to popular vote for the additional $50,000,000 be fairly, faithfully and substantially carried out, and, further,

Resolved, That it condemns the present organization of the state highway department by which officials already burdened by important and onerous duties, demanding all their time for their proper performance and which duties have no necessary relation to the highways of the state, are charged with the important duty involved in the proper administration of highways as a quasi, unscientific and wasteful; therefore,

Resolved, That we are in favor of a state commission of highways absolutely divorced from politics in which tenure of office shall be determined by efficiency and one member of which shall be a man of proved administrative ability and one a civil engineer having had special training and practical experience in highway construction.

Large Co-operative Business.

The Monmouth County Farmers' Exchange of New Jersey is not a grange organization, but it points the way to successful co-operation, which is a cardinal grange principle. The last report of this exchange shows a total business the past year of $941,765.51. It was organized only five years ago with a paid in capital of $7,000. Today its capital stock is $75,000, and upon this a dividend of 5 per cent has been declared. Its capital and surplus now amount to $101,734.26. The total business for five years amounts to $4,320,748.09. The total number of packages handled last year was 577,716, or 2,891 carloads. In the last four years 11,145 tons of fertilizers have been compounded and sold to members of the exchange.

HUNGER STRIKER ELUDES POLICE

Miss Lillian Lenton Escapes in Men's Clothing.

London, June 21.—Miss Lillian Lenton, the militant suffragette, who was convicted of having started the fire in the Kew tea garden pavilion and who has given the police much trouble, has escaped in men's clothes from the house where she was living in Leeds pending the expiration of her license.

Miss Lenton was released from jail in March because of illness caused by a hunger strike. She broke her license and was not heard of again until June 10, when she was arrested at Doncaster under dramatic circumstances.

A woman named Winslip was charged with breaking into Westfield House at Doncaster with the intent to burn it. A witness for the defense, who called himself May Dennis, confessed that she and not the Winslip woman was guilty. She proved to be Miss Lenton, for whom the police had been searching. The Winslip woman was released and Miss Lenton was sent back to jail.

Miss Lenton immediately started another hunger strike and got out on a license a few days ago. She was placed in a house at Leeds until she had sufficiently recovered to be returned to jail and police guarded the house. She eluded them and got away.

There was a slight improvement in the condition of Harold Hewitt, who was injured when he interfered with the race for the Ascot cup. He partly recovered consciousness and after a short period slept calmly.

HANGING ABOLISHED

Governor Tener Signs Bill Substituting Electrocution.

Harrisburg, Pa., June 21.—Under a bill just signed by Governor Tener, electrocution is to replace hanging of murderers in Pennsylvania.

The executions are to take place at the new western penitentiary, now being built in Centre county. Person convicted of murder and sentenced to death prior to passage of the act are to be hanged. Murderers whose crime is committed after June 19, 1913, are subject to electrocution.

The inspectors of the western penitentiary are commanded immediately to undertake the construction of an appropriate building for electrocution on the site of the new penitentiary in Centre county, and to install such electrical machinery and apparatus as may be necessary.

STATE LOBBY QUIZ FOR BUSINESSMEN

ALTER ON WITNESS STAND.

Speaker of House Says There Are Lobbyists But None Approached Him in Corrupt Manner.

Harrisburg, Pa., June 21.—Subpoenas were issued for fifty-six men and women, many of them leaders in business and politics throughout the state, by the special committee of the house of representatives which is investigating the alleged "insidious lobby" and the source of a stored supply of food and liquor which is provided to hungry and thirsty legislators in a room in the capitol.

Twenty-two Philadelphians, eleven Pittsburghers and twenty-three persons from other parts of the state, including several from Harrisburg, were subpoenaed, and a number of sergeants-at-arms were immediately dispatched to all parts of the state to serve the calls for attendance at the session of the committee which is to be held on Monday.

Henry C. Snavely, member from Lebanon, was the first witness, and testified that he knew of no organized lobby, nor of any lobbyists, but that he had received numerous letters and telegrams regarding his vote on the local option bill. W. E. Savacool, of Bucks, gave similar testimony.

Speaker Alter testified that no one had approached him regarding a bill except in a perfectly proper way. He said that it was a matter of common knowledge that there were men in Harrisburg almost continuously looking after legislation, and among them he named Messrs. Lydick and Clark, who represented soft coal interests; Mr. Ettla, who was interested in liquor legislation, and a Mr. Mason from Pittsburgh. The speaker said that he did not know of any organized lobby or that any of the men he named had done anything improper.

Dr. C. J. Hemminger, of Somerset, said that the only persons who had approached him were members of the house to talk about his "pure shoe" bill. He declared emphatically that he knew of no improper methods of any organized lobby.

Eugene J. McAleer, of Philadelphia, stated that he knew of no improper methods used by any one and that the only person who had approached him was a man named Mowitz, in favor of the child labor bill. He said that many persons had spoken to him about bills, but that it was all legitimate.

E. Lory Humes, of Crawford, said that he did not know of any organized lobby, but he believed that there were men about the capitol who were interested in legislation of various kinds. He said he knew of Mr. Lydick, whom he thought represented the Pennsylvania railroad; Mr. Peeney and others whose names he could not recall, who were in Harrisburg as representatives of the State Federation of Labor and interested in bills; the president of the Woman Suffrage Association of the state, whose name he did not recall, but who asked him to vote for the suffrage resolution; Mr. Walker, a Beaver county manufacturer, who asked him not to oppose the Pymatuning swamp project, and a man named Story, who was sent to Harrisburg on the bill and whose expenses were paid. Mr. Humes also said he had heard that the United States Steel corporation was behind the Pymatuning swamp bill.

Mr. Humes created a slight sensation by saying a man whom he thought was a liquor dealer in Dauphin or Cumberland county had said in his presence that all liquor dealers had been assessed from $10 to $25 to fight adverse liquor legislation, and wanted to know how the money was being spent.

Members followed in rapid order all saying that they knew of no improper methods being used, although every one said that he had been approached by some persons for or against bills.

It is a bit hard to realize, but nevertheless a fact, that the diamond that sparkles on the finger, the lead in the pencil which one is using and the coal that burns on the grate are all formed of the same element, carbon, under varying conditions.

If sorrel grows on the lawn it probably means that there is too much shade and that the soil is sour. The way to correct this is to trim the trees and let in the sunshine and to scatter slaked lime thinly over the places where the grass does not do well.

A Philosophical Discussion

By REGINALD D. HAVEN

He was a graduate of the United States Military academy at West Point and had not only learned conic sections, analytical geometry and all that, but had during the summer encampments escorted young ladies to "Old Fort Put" and over "Flirtation walk" and danced with them at hops.

He was a major of artillery in the United States army and stationed at Fort Snelling. It was August, and he thought he would run over to Lake Minnetonka at the time the resort was filled with persons enjoying their summer vacations. He was thirty-five and unmarried. His friends said that he had proposed to so many girls when he was at West Point that there were none left for him to marry when he really meant business.

He had passed out of the reckless love-making of youth. It had left him dreamy, imaginative, with a vein of sentiment such as belongs to the poet. He was fond of musing upon the wonders of the universe. The most interesting study to him was mankind—that is, after woman-kind—for, being unmarried, he considered woman a bit subject for study, although a married friend told him he had better stick to nebulae and let woman alone.

"Major Donaldson, have you met Miss Kenworthy?" said a lady by way of an introduction.

"I have not, but it gives me great pleasure to do so now," said the major. The introducer dropped out, and the officer drew a chair beside Miss Kenworthy. It was the hour of twilight, and the planet Venus was looking down, radiant, on the god of day that had sunk beneath the horizon.

"Beautiful sight," remarked the major by way of opening the conversation. "This hour at this season is my favorite of all parts of the year."

"Very beautiful," Miss Kenworthy assented.

"I wonder how the planet happened to be named for the goddess of love?"

The major glanced suspiciously at his companion. She was looking out upon the landscape with a sober face.

"Your explanation does not hold. The phases of Venus are not apparent to the naked eye, and the ancients had no telescopes. I wonder if the planets are inhabited."

"If there are human beings on Venus I presume the women are all Venuses."

Again Major Donaldson cast an interrogative glance at Miss Kenworthy. Was her remark intended to be humorous or satirical? Her face was still sober. There was no twinkle in her eye.

"Do you know," said the major, "that the philosopher, Sir William Hamilton, suggested that life may have been transmitted to the earth from one of the other planets as the wind wafts pollen from flower to flower?"

"In the same principle, I presume, love was sent down to us from Venus."

"You are not of a serious vein, I perceive. As for me, I'm quite in love with these speculations. One of my favorite topics of thought is whether we have lived before and whether we shall live again."

"Do you ever have a feeling that you have been before in the position that you occupy at the present moment?"

"I don't exactly understand you."

"To illustrate, we two are sitting together at a summer evening at the twilight hour, looking out on land and water and sky. Supposing that it should occur to you that you have been sitting with me before and in the same conditions—that is what I mean."

"Now I comprehend. There are persons who have experienced such sensations, and these incidents have been used as arguments that we have existed before we came upon earth."

"I have such an experience at the present moment."

"You don't mean it."

"I am conscious of having sat with you at twilight overlooking land and water and sky, and though instead of looking westward we were looking northward, the planet Venus shone forth resplendent. Singular, isn't it?"

"Very," the major assented thoughtfully. "Have you any idea of the time that has elapsed since this previous experience? Was it a few years, thousands of years, millions of years or eons?"

"It was exactly twelve years."

"The major once more turned and scrutinized the lady's face."

"Can you not particularize further?" he asked.

"I can. We were sitting on the rear porch at the hotel at West Point looking out on that beautiful view up the Hudson river. You were a cadet, and I was just out of short dresses."

"And the planet Venus. What has that to do with it?" stammered the major, reddening.

"You told me you loved me and would never love another."

The major sat intently looking at the lady beside him. He had no remembrance of her or the scene she described. But that delightful period when he had tramped through a flower garden as if it were stubble now appeared to him what it really was. And it had passed. Here was one of the flowers on which he had tramped. Some of its original fragrance remained, more precious than gold or gems.

"I did. And that love has remained with me. I love you today as I did then."

She burst into a merry laugh.

Passersby always appreciate that pride which a farmer takes in his premises which causes him to fix things up and make them shipshape, so that he takes pride in giving the farm a name and putting that, with his own beneath, on a neat signboard over the entrance of the driveway leading from the main road. Entirely apart from the advantage which may come to the owner of the farm by doing this, it is a real convenience in that it enables those who pass the place to know who it is who lives there.

-DOLLETTA-

The Smallest Human Mother on Earth

There is certainly a treat in store for the people of Gettysburg, and those attending the 50th Anniversary Celebration when it is known that Dolletta, the smallest human mother on earth and her two babies, will be seen here for the next two weeks. Dolletta is without a doubt the world's greatest midget and the only midget lady that ever successfully gave birth to children. The most remarkable feature of this attraction is that both of her children were born by means of the hazardous last resort, the Cæsarian operation, and the fact that both mother and children are alive and healthy is considered miraculous by the medical world. Dolletta is now 31 years old, 28 inches high and weighs but 37 pounds. Her little girl Lucia is now 7 years old and is a head taller than her mother. Her little son Charles is just 14 months old and the cutest little fellow ever. Dolletta and her babies were easily the feature attraction at the big fairs held in the east last fall, and no doubt will be remembered by a lot of Gettysburg people who saw her at the fair held in York last October. This is positively Dolletta's last appearance before the public and every broad minded and intelligent person should see and talk to the smallest mother on earth. She will be on exhibition from June 23, to July 5, at the Carnival which will be held on West Breckenridge Street.
